FOR AN OPEN AND FREE SOCIETY - SOLIDARITY INSTEAD OF EXCLUSION!

There is a dramatic political shift: racism and misanthropy became socially acceptable. What was unthinkable yesterday and considered unspeakable is reality today. Humanity and human rights, religious freedom and the rule of law are openly attacked. This is an attack that affects all of us.

We know about the importance of the state elections in Saxony and current political conditions regarding the dispute over the nationwide shift to the right.

Europe is seized by nationalistic changes of desolidarization and exclusion. Criticism of these inhumane conditions is deliberately defamed as unrealistic. In this situation, we do not allow that the welfare state, refugees and migration are being pitted against each other. We fight back, when human rights and fundamental liberties are being endangered.

While the state is tightening so-called security laws and expands surveillance for the determination of its strength, the social system is characterized by weakness: people suffer from the fact that far too little is invested, such as in education, care and health, in the fight against the ecological crisis, in public transport, child care and youth culture. While agricultural infrastructure is heavily underfunded and people are pushing into urban centers, there is a lack of affordable housing in the cities. The redistribution from the bottom up was massively driven by crisis, such as the "Wendekrise", Agenda 2010 and the financial crisis. Billion profits due to tax-advantages counterpart one of the largest low-wage sectors in Europe and the impoverishment of disadvantaged people.

Not with us - we hold against this!

"For an open country with free people" in 1989 many people demonstrated under that slogan. This message has not lost its relevancy until today and is expected to return to the streets this summer. Now we stand up for an open and solidary society, in which human rights are indivisible and diverse and self-determined life-plans are self-evident- in Saxony, Germany and worldwide.

We oppose any form of discrimination and hate speech. Together, we oppose racism, anti-Semitism, anti-Muslim racism, anti-romanism, anti-feminism and LGBTTIQ * hostility. People who rely on the solidarity of society must not be pitted against each other. The equivalence of everyone concerning their reputation and their possibilities is not negotiable. All people living here must be enabled to participate in society.

We already are many who are committed:

Whether at the external borders of Europe, in the field of refugee organizations and welcome initiatives, in queer feministic or antiracist movements, in migrant organizations, in disability- or child's-rights organizations, in unions, in associations, NGOs, religious communities, neighborhood associations. Whether in the fight against housing shortages, repression, care needs, against surveillance and restricting laws, against the deprivation of refugees and for climate justice - since "the fall of solidarity" hundreds of thousands of people went out on the streets for a solidary society - in many places people are active and committed to create a society of many. This start of social movements will be continued this summer.

As a start to our joint activities, a demonstration will take place on July 6 in Leipzig, with which we want to initiate the #unteilbar summer in Saxony. The highlight will be a large-scale demonstration with nationwide mobilization on August 24, 2019 in Dresden. In between we want to cooperate with the #wannwennnetzt concert and market place tour in Plauen, in the Erzgebirge, in Zwickau, Grimma and Bautzen. From now on we will be active in many different local places and will mobilize nationwide for the demonstration in Dresden.

#unteilbar Sachsen flourishes thru our commitment. Everyone is needed for preparations: Start networking with others and mobilizing in your neighborhoods.

For an open and free society - Solidarity instead of exclusion in Saxony and far beyond!

For a Europe of human rights and social justice!

For a solidary and social togetherness in Saxony instead of exclusion and racism!

For the right of protection and asylum - Against the isolation of Europe!

For a free and diverse society!

Solidarity knows no borders!
