A dramatic political shift is taking place: Human values and human rights, the freedom of religion and the rule of law are openly attacked. With forthcoming state elections in Saxony, Brandenburg and Thuringia, there is reason to fear that racism, antisemitism and islamophobia will increasingly become socially acceptable. Together with all those actively working against the turn to the right and right-wing terror, we are taking to the streets in the run-up to the state elections – for an open and free society.

Democracy, human rights, and social participation can not be seen as simply given. They must be fought for and defended every day. Pursuing policies of unlimited growth and maximum profits leads to massive social inequality and the destruction of nature. These policies legitimize exclusion and isolation with deadly consequences. They pave the way for authoritarian solutions and the strengthening of ethnonationalist parties. As the civil-society coalition #unteilbar, we are standing up against these developments. We will not permit that the welfare state, flight, and migration are played off against each other, and are taking the initiative now!

For human rights and social justice!
Solidarity knows no borders!
